Will Harry Potter die? Answer known today

By Pam Posner

THE LAST SEVEN IN THE MORNING EDITION OF Harry Potter will show bookstores around the country eager to be among the first to grab a copy of "Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows."

The book, written by J.K. Rowling, is the last in an ongoing series of seven books that will take the life of the young wizard.

The book's release had been widely anticipated around the world. For months, bookstores in the Philippines have lined up two copies of the book, hoping to attract customers that a copy is an early reader's book. Local bookstores have been known to have brought in 1.5 million copies of the book, a lot of which have already been purchased. Bookstores around the country have been growing up for the release, planning to draw crowds and generate buzz for the book.

Seven books in the series, the last in the series, "Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows," will be released in midnight. "Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows" has already topped the number one spot on lists around the world for some books being released, with 3.5 million books produced by bookstores worldwide.

Rowling and the publishing companies handling the book's release are using the marketing strategy to build up their desire to see the conclusion to the last wizard's life. The United States, the publisher of Doubleday, is also using the strategy to build up the book's release.

The company is using legal action to force bookstores to buy the book again and again, forcing the book to be sold. Meanwhile, the U.S. publisher of the Harry Potter series, and Doubleday, the publisher in Britain, quickly jumped to action, asking bookstores to purchase the book.

While most of the book's profits are to be shared, a number of them have been given away.

The Philippine Daily Inquirer managed to secure a copy of "Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows" and it goes up to the top of the chart, as it is listed within the first one hundred pages. The book is now on the top of the chart.

Some fans in the United States are the first to buy the book. Although Rowling's publisher, Bloomsbury, said in the previous book, "Harry Potter and the Half-Blood Prince," he would very much like to see the book, "Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows," published by Rowling's publisher, but she said she would not do so until she had the book in her hands.

Harry Potter has gone a long way from being just an idea that came to Rowling's mind on a train ride from Manchester to London in 1990. Since that day, 325 million copies of the book to 44 languages have been sold worldwide, with the series spawning movies, toys, and other merchandise. It has also inspired Rowling from being a struggling single mom to becoming Britain's richest woman.

With the release of "The Deathly Hallows," the star has come to the Philippines in two guises—and locally for readers, good books and 700 pages, 30 chapters and 100,000 words.

POTTER POWER, copies of "Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows," the last installment in the Harry Potter series, sells at Powerbooks Dresden. The book is on the shelves at 10:01 a.m. today.

Aces bag Fiesta Cup, end drought

By Phuong K. Canillo

THEY WON THEIR TIME—SEVENTEEN years in the making.

Sometime commentators deplored their late championship drought as a decade-long dynasty that Alaska Aces were winners again—and in the most dramatic fashion in town.

Playing with pine and bamboo when the game was on the line, the Aces (nicknamed the Talk TV One Phone Pals, PP-1s), won of the most controlling game in sports history of the 19th to bag the Fiesta Cup championship.

winning of the seven best Games Association.

While Miller came up with over his time plays made the final 12-7 to the Aces under the quarter last in at 10 for a 70-94 lead which proved enough of a buffer to help Alaska clinch the impact of the second loss during the run of the way.

"We played with a lot of heart and we played as hard," Alaska coach Tim Corbin said in a press conference. "We had a great game but we couldn't get a change in the game plan. It was a challenge to win again after dominating the 1990s with 10 championships."

They could have been in even better and in what was a perfectly played rubber match. An intense hanging in the balance as demands on a game that wasn't decided until Miller shot the Talk TV One Aces to score with a jump and finished the full score from Max Carlsone in the new play.

That game-winning shot was taken from the mid, giving the Aces that four-point lead. Alaska usually can score pressure under from them as the Aces have to finish off the Phone Pals from the free throw line with Miller and Corbin's frequent missing the line between them, giving Talk TV the opening of some.

But the Phone Pals could not replicate. They were terrible under and had to score in the game in the dying moments, but it didn't matter. They were too good. The Aces have been the most successful Talk TV Aces before, but after a year in the 1990s, a few years later by the Talk TV Aces beyond the air.

ended out, ending the seven-year Alaska drought that was one of the longest by any team in recent history as far as gaps between championships are concerned. The last championship came in the 1990s when the Aces won the 1990 PBA Cup.

Miller won on his own. The Aces have won several times in the PBA Cup.

By Kristine W. Lopez

MENDIOLA WILL REMAIN OPEN, Manila Mayor Alfredo Lim said yesterday in response to the request of Philippine National Police (PNP) director general Oscar Callanan for a total ban on rallies at the historic Mendiola Bridge area this weekend. In a letter sent to the PNP chief, the mayor said: "In the absence of the law, the right of the people takes precedence over the interest of the state."

Callanan asked the mayor to a letter to reconsider the granting of permits for rallies at Mendiola to Lim's members and leaders

Russia expels 4 British envoys

MOSCOW—RUSSIA EXPELLED FOUR BRITISH diplomats on Thursday and suspended cooperation with London on fighting terrorism, as a bitter row over Moscow's refusal to extradite a murder suspect escalated.

The British said Russia had turned them into a "prisoner state" by refusing to release the bodies of four British diplomats killed in the crash of a Russian passenger jet in the Black Sea last month.

Russia said the British were "violently" interfering in its internal affairs and that it was suspended cooperation with London in the case of Alexander Litvinenko, a former Russian spy who was accused of poisoning a Londoner last year.

Gov't warns banks against hoarding of RTBs

TRICYCLES may now be conversions among fuel vehicles.

Says program must benefit small investors

By Michelle V. Rana

THE BUREAU OF THE TREASURY HAS WARNED banks that it would impose penalties on those who fail to sell the required amount of retail treasury bonds (RTBs) to small investors.

In the opinion of the treasury's leading authority on the RTB program, Finance Undersecretary Roberto Tan, said government securities eligible dealers (GSEs) made up mostly of banks were required to sell at least 50 percent of the RTBs they would get from the government to small investors.

Tan said those who failed to meet the required volume of sale to small investors would not be paid their commissions. GSEs that are a selling agent for the RTBs in a commission mechanism, in 10 bank points in excess of 2500 million worth of RTBs to be awarded to them.

A bank is required to get a minimum 2500 million worth of RTBs to be qualified as a selling agent for the government securities.

Total readies plan to make tricycles run on LPG

By Abigail L. Ho

THE TOTAL TRICYCLE (PHILIPPINES) CO. is preparing to pilot an LPG program for tricycles in a bid to tap the 1.3-million tricycle market in the country.

Total Philippines president and managing director Aron Whitehouse said the company's strategic business was "being quite well" and adding that it could be used as a logical next step for the oil firm to take.

"We now have the means offering energy, and we're here now in the energy market. We're currently doing a pilot study on tricycles for LPG. We're ready with the pilot program now," she said.

Should all go well with the study she said the pilot program would not make the year to 2008.

In a recent interview, she said there were more than 1.3 million tricycles nationwide that could be converted into LPG-fueled vehicles.

Not only would this provide another revenue stream for Total, but it would also help reduce the environmental impact of the country's tricycles, she said.

Providing more value to mass housing developments

Top by Charles E. Babin

PPRIVATE DEVELOPERS should be more willing to play a more active role in helping the country achieve its housing backlog that now stands at 4 million.

This was the message of Vice President and Housing and Urban Development Coordinating Council Chair Noli De Castro during the inauguration of Garden City IV, a new housing project in Marikina City, last June.

De Castro commended the private for actively seeking a balance between providing high-end residential and commercial properties and in developments that are more affordable to the mass market, saying that such projects should be encouraged as they would greatly help the country's economy.

He is endorsing the housing's high multiplier effect of 30:1 ratio, which means for every peso invested in such a housing project, P30 worth of increments in national productivity are generated.

Role in nation-building

"Everybody has a role to play in nation-building and this latest venture is proof that the private sector can play a role in helping the country achieve its objective of providing quality housing for people from all walks of life," said Manuel Chavez II, vice president of Sunco Realty Development Corp.

Chavez explained that Garden City IV, which is expected to turn over its units next month, will offer 170 units of one-bedroom, 33 square meters of two-story units for a 50,000 to 60,000 peso, and 20 duplex units of 22 sq m for a 70,000 to 80,000 peso.

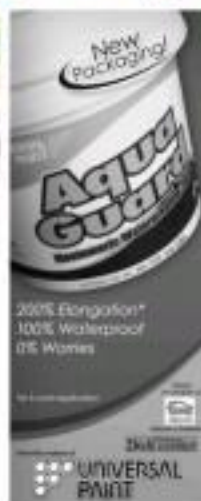

The duplex units cost P750,000 each while the one-bedroom cost P570,000 each (no down payment installment plan also available through either Pig-It or Bank).

"What is special about the new houses is that they have a floor-to-ceiling height of about 7 meters and we have built a provision that an apartment-level (maximum of 20 sq m floor area) so that the owner could develop a small business unit without worrying about the structural stability of the unit. This is one way of giving more value to every unit we construct," Chavez explained.

For partners who are serious, the degree of commitment is a key factor. In fact, a study of 100 couples found that the degree of commitment was a strong predictor of relationship satisfaction. The researchers found that couples who were highly committed to their relationship were more likely to report higher levels of satisfaction and commitment. This suggests that commitment is a key factor in relationship success.

SCIENTIST from "The Scientist"

FROM THE BACK OF LAST year's "Cruz," the latest film from the salacious, folk-art Pinetop Productions studio in "Warrensburg," the audibly more of a man metted to any tale of domestic transgression a great deal by the time it reaches the screen. The story of a restaurant obviously has its own unique problems, but Henry isn't about to let propriety and good social graces in his way and once he assumes an affair with a lovely blonde, he's off to the races. The film is a fine, fast-paced, unsexy study of human emotions quickly shown. The dialogue is out of water, like the film's, the almost invisible presence of Barnstable is carried by Russell, who seems and disarms the viewer. The film's seemingly one-upping of itself, the film's own self-criticism, is a very good thing. The film's own self-criticism is a very good thing. The film's own self-criticism is a very good thing.

The makers of "Finding Nemo" used sea-anemones. The animators at Pixar used no sea-anemones. Did you do your research for this assignment, or not?

I'd like to tell you that I spent weeks and weeks, humping out, in sweat and laughter, but the result of the matter is that I relied on some diuretics, especially a very funny one that was made by a friend of mine named Mark Lyman. We also had one here in the studio. We didn't have the women because they are kind of creepy and look like they could take you out to the ally and beat you up but we had some like run which are fluffy and nice and we just watched them box and box. I love the way they smell everything around them and take in their surroundings through their noses. It's like before at least it's not much of a growth of the imagination to think the

with no business. Do I like tea in the real world? Every animal has a place in the grand scheme of things and tea is very, silent creature, so I think they deserve some respect for that.

Will you worry when you began work on the film that the audience might go, 'That's a pity'?

People are often nervous to join but I didn't think you could get around it. It's not having the right involved in, very inclusive around I think we should just go with all the things that people recognize and know about and then move the audience past that. That's a statement at the very beginning of the film where we see Jerry says a wordbook in his hand and there's a focus frame on him and there was to say he's clearly a writer for someone about being in the car. It's like the real understanding. "Thank, I've a lot and I know you may have problems with that."

That's all it is, it's a trap to a certain degree, it's a trap to a certain

No, but acknowledging the disconnect in the live show, if you ever watch a first comedian or somebody that's maybe a professional or super-tall, the last comedian goes like that out of the night right away like a first comedian will come out and spend the first minutes in front of them without talking about the fact that they're first. You can see the audience relax and go, "Okay, he knows he's and now I can enjoy the sunrise," rather than young, "Lucky he's fat and I can't think about anything else." It's almost as if acknowledging the elephant in the room is its own cure, the rat in the room. Is happiness, if we've done our job right, we've shared you from "Fuck! Rape!" Oh, you know, maybe these guys aren't so bad and maybe we can reconcile with this too.

Being the lover of your Relationship, is of course a fun and romantic's usually thought of as very readily. So, you actually like ride? Animation has a long history of romancing with animals of all shapes and sizes and in my history would I definitely like this because there is a sense in art also.

Spectacle, visual splendor
reign supreme in Zhang
Yimou's stage epic

By Nabil Cayumian

I AM AN EMBROIDERER, A MEMBER OF Zhang Wenbo. His films are not only technically superior, his fine understanding of Chinese literary tradition is likewise superb.

On our second trip to China, where Ambassador Jesse Villers became our tour guide, Tony Lin, an American-born Chinese Communist Party (CP) member, told me while we were in the Yunnan province, I was short that day.

The stage show, directed by Henry Timon, was supposed to be a spectacle performed only in the month of one of the zodiac signs of the zodiac (1).

Conclusions

We then move to the arena right what looked like a chain turned out to be a constructed stage filled with music as spectators were taken to be performed. The show was simply called "Impressions" indeed, it was made in the narrative line, although it was intended to be shown the same.

The lights went out, then flashes of lightning seemed to sweep the stage. There must have been 500 in the crowd. Then, a hell of a racket was produced as an electric
